

EUROPEAN SUPERVISOR EDUCATION INITIATIVE

ESE Conference 2013

The Future of European Financial Supervision

26/27 September 2013

Frankfurt am Main, Germany

Programme

ABSTRACT

In the aftermath of the financial crisis, financial supervision and banking industry have been undergoing changes at fast pace. Globally, regulators are addressing the too-big-to-fail-issue and macroprudential supervision has become a core instrument to complement traditional microprudential supervision. In view of the Eurozone, the Single Supervisory Mechanism (SSM) is being implemented as a new supervisory structure and banks have to adapt to a rapidly changing economic and regulatory environment.

Following these developments, this conference aims to analyse foreseeable changes in the banking industry's structure, discuss the impacts of a banking union and explore the tools of macroprudential surveillance. High-ranking experts from supervision, academia and the industry will give insights from their perspective and provide outlooks on the future of financial supervision.
